Farm worker pact reviewed

ACAPULCO (UPI) — Henry Kissinger interrupted his business trip today for talks with Mexican Foreign Minister Emilio Rabasa on Mexican proposals for a new treaty regulating entry of Mexican farm workers into the United States.

Rabasa, who presented his proposals in Washington in February, confirmed here he asked Kissinger for a meeting to discuss the idea.

Kissinger married the former Nancy Maginnis Saturday and flew to his Pacific beach resort city for a 10-day honeymoon.

U.S. judge dismisses count

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge Gerhard A. Gesell today dismissed one count of the charges that Dwight Chapin lied in a Watergate grand jury about political dirty tricks against the Democrats in 1972.

(Early Story, p. 10)

The judge's decision came minutes after John W. Dean III testified that Chapin asked him to talk to political adviser Donald Segretti about whether the FBI was curious about "political pranks" against Democratic presidential hopefuls in 1972.

Named DA Hogan dies at 72

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank S. Hogan, who wanted to be a professional baseball player but became a district attorney instead, died Tuesday at 72 after a long illness.

Hogan, noted for his racket busting under Thomas E. Dewey and later on his own, served as New York's district attorney from 1947 until late December, 1973. During his tenure, his office was untouched by scandal and became a model for the nation.

Mariner 10 shut down early

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10 is being shut down more than a week early in hopes of preserving its camera and other systems from a short circuit, so the spacecraft can make another pass at Mercury in September.

Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory announced that Mariner had taken its last picture of Mercury Monday, although it had been planned for the space explorer to continue photographing the planet until April 11.

Merliners ask subsidy hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines, pleading "overwhelming" fuel increases, today asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for subsidies to get them through the next 12 months.

"We are simply overwhelmed with spiraling fuel costs," Pan Am said in requesting a mail subsidy of up to $194 million.

S. Viet units on alert

SAIGON (UPI) — Two of South Vietnam's four military regions were on full military alert today because of upsurges of fighting northwest of Saigon and in the Central Highlands, government officials reported.

In the highlands, government forces regained contact today with parts of a battered Ranger battalion but nearly 200 men were missing and their fate unknown, the Saigon command reported.

Baltimore cardinal retires

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Retirement of Lawrence Joseph Cardinal Shehan, 75, was announced Tuesday by Vatican officials.

Cardinal Shehan was noted for his segregation of Baltimore parochial schools in 1962 and for retaining his offices in a deteriorating downtown area after a major church moved into an affluent suburb of that city some years ago.

Exile ends for Lao leader

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Prince Souphannouvong, titular head of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, arrived in Vientiane today to form the long-delayed coalition government with Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma, a half brother he had not seen for more than 10 years.

Souphannouvong, 54, the "Red Prince," arrived by air from Hanoi shortly before noon (11 p.m. MDT), smiling and waving to a cheering crowd of about 5,000.

Cambodian forces advance

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government troops advanced today on a Communist-held area near Oudong, the old royal capital. Cambodian forces have been fighting to recapture the past week, the high command said.

Nixon back tax bill $440,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The congressional committee that has been investigating President Nixon's taxes today will release a staff report concluding that the President and his wife owe $440,000 in back taxes and interest.

The thick report, believed to exceed 700 printed pages, was to be released to newsmen at noon MST.

The Joint committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which undertook a study of the President's taxes at his request last December, met behind closed doors for nearly three hours this morning to hear staff recommendations and conclusions.

The committee source said the staff had concluded that the Nixon owe $440,000 in back taxes and interest on income earned during his first four years in the White House.

Another committee source, an aide to Sen. Russell Long, D-La., the committee chairman, said the committee had voted nine to one to make the staff report public during the afternoon.

He said the lone dissenter was Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Meb.

The White House said during the morning that Nixon attorneys were meeting with the committee staff in an effort to settle "technical questions" regarding the taxes. A spokesman denied that the lawyers were trying to delay the proceedings.

The White House spokesman said he could not say what the technical questions involved.

Long had wanted to release the report immediately, but there had been reports the four Republicans on the committee and Rep. Wilbur M. Darr, favored delaying making it public until the White House had time to study it.

Long, on entering the committee room, said to Mills: "I heard you and I have a disagreement over something."

But said he didn't want to get rushed into anything," responded Mills.

A source close to the committee told UPI "if everything goes according to the scenario, it will all work out (the report will be released today but you never know until they get in there)."

Before reporters were ordered out of the room, Rep. Harold R. Collier, R-Ill., said if the report contains no specific recommendations it might be made public quickly.

"If it embraces recommendations, the committee has a responsibility to study them," Collier added.

Long had scheduled to hold a "news conference" to discuss the report, which was undertaken at Nixon's request last December.

Health insurance proposal offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Enactment of a national health insurance program moved forward Tuesday through the introduction by two congressional leaders of a proposal akin to that presented by President Nixon two months ago.

The new national health insurance bill was drawn up and introduced by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who scrapped a much more liberal version that he had championed for four years, and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who also sponsored the Nixon version.

Both the Nixon and Kennedy-Mills versions contain the same levels of benefits and about the same amount of payments of premiums.

But the Kennedy-Mills and Nixon versions still contain differences, primarily in administration and financing.

Kennedy acknowledged would require a compromise. These differences include:

Premium payments — Under Kennedy-Mills these would be graduated with low-income employees contributing less than under the Nixon version. However, the total amount of premiums raised, about $30 billion a year, would be about the same, and in both plans employers would pay three-quarters, and employees, one-quarter.

Collection of funds — Kennedy-Mills would have the federal government collect the premiums through social security system, while the Nixon plan would have private insurance companies collect premiums for individuals.

Management — Unlike the Nixon bill, Kennedy-Mills would create to run the program a new social security board reporting directly to the president, rather than operating it as an arm of the department of health, education and welfare.

In addition, the new proposal would lower from $1,500, the amount in the Nixon plan to $1,000 the maximum that a family would pay for health bills in a year. All health expenses over $1,000 would be covered under the Kennedy-Mills version.

Simon pushes sufficiency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy chief William E. Simon said today emergency energy legislation is no longer needed, and called on Congress to concentrate instead on helping the nation become self-sufficient in energy.

Simon, appearing before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, asked it to forget the standby energy emergency authorities but it was urging and consider 18 separate energy-related recommendations the administration has made.

"This is not to suggest that standby authority to impose rationing and other mandatory conservation measures is no longer required," said Simon.

Dynamite plan told at trial

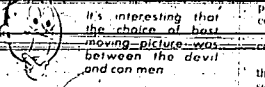

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — A witness at the murder trial of W. A. "Tony" Boyle testified today of a plan to dynamite the home of United Mine Workers Union reform candidate Joseph A. "Jack" Yablonski.

George Smith Jr., of Tennessee, said he discussed but then rejected a plan to dynamite the Yablonski home in Clarksburg, Pa., where the UMW leader, his wife and daughter were shot to death.

Smith said Sidney Huddleston, one of those who has confessed in the Yablonski slayings, "wanted me to dynamite the Yablonski home. He told me to get dynamite and stick dynamite in a sack and put it against the Yablonski home."

Smith said the explosives would be a 100-pound sack that would hold a case and a half of dynamite.

The witness said Huddleston told him it "had to be done soon, the husband" and that about $1,200 in it for him and Paul Gilly, one of those later convicted of the slayings.

More shells batter Golan

By United Press International
Israel and Syrian gunners traded artillery fire today on the Golan Heights, front where Israel was preparing against a new surprise attack.

A new acting chief of staff took command of Israeli forces in a major shakeup growing out of the Arab surprise attack on Israel in the 1973 war.

An Israeli newspaper report said the Syrians had evacuated villages near the 1973 border, moved up additional artillery batteries and strengthened their infantry.

Syrian cannon fire hit the central and northern sectors of the Israeli border, reported of Syria in the 16-day war but caused no casualties, a military spokesman said. He said Israeli gunners returned fire, sparking an exchange for the 23rd night.

The Jerusalem Post said army observers detected the Syrian rearming civilians from villages opposite the Israeli bulge and moving up another armored brigade across from the southeast corner of the salient.

The movement prompted the Israelis to send in reinforcements and declare a high state of alert Monday, the Post said.

In Damascus, a Syrian military communiqué said the Israelis were indeed sending in reinforcements.

The bulletin said Syrian troops retaliated today with artillery fire to an Israeli attempt to strengthen military positions along the Golan Heights ceasefire line.

"Our forces immediately engaged the enemy and the fighting started with various weapons," the communiqué said.

TF zone law down to wire

TWIN FALLS — The long-awaited adoption of a new Twin Falls County zoning ordinance is apparently down to the wire.

A special meeting of the Twin Falls Joint Planning Council has been called Thursday night to review the latest draft of the controversial zoning law.

If the planning council approves the proposed ordinance, it stands adoption by the county commission as a second, minutes or hours after, according to Commissioner William Wiseman.

If changes are recommended, final action still will come "very soon," said Commissioner Merl Leonard.

Leonard said the commissioners want the planning group's approval because it has "wide county representation."

"We felt it necessary to follow up the full time of communication," he said today.

Although Leonard would not give specifics of the current zoning proposal, he did hint at several basic changes since the plan was handed over to the commissioners by county zoners.

A residential agricultural zone has been added, he said. The designation would set a minimum lot size of one acre.

Residential low-density zoning also has been set up around Twin Falls City, according to Leonard. The designation probably will set a minimum lot size between 12,000 square feet and one acre, depending on availability of city sewer service.

Zones where mobile home parks will be allowed outright are in the proposed Leonard said. Several citizen groups have asked that the trailer parks be "conditional" uses in all zones.

The request of city-county planner David Huchler for rules and regulations around Twin Falls City also has been followed to some extent, according to Leonard.

"We have given some credence to his recommendations," Leonard said. "I'm positive of some reduction in the areas zoned for residential development, he added.

Minor girls may get birth control info

By CRICKET BIRD
Times News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Legislature has cleared the way to make contraceptives available to minor girls without parental permission.

Family Planning Clinics in southern Idaho have been requiring parental permission before treating minor girls.

The Twin Falls clinic operated by the South Central District Health Department, which had treated girls without a parent's okay, but changed its policy Jan. 1 because of legal questions, some of which involved the treatment of minors.

The new law, signed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus on March 22, made two changes:

It cleared up confusion about the legality of dispensing contraceptives in general.

It also opened the door for physicians to prescribe contraceptives to minors.

Before the proposed amendments to the existing law gained legislative approval, the statute, which dated from 1887, made the advertising of contraceptives a felony with no exception for doctors.

The law was sufficiently vague to be left open for interpretation. Although there had been no test cases, the Idaho Medical Association and others interpreted the law as meaning that not only advertising, but distribution of contraceptives were felonies, even when handled by a physician.

The revised bill makes a specific exception for "licensed physicians of this state or registered health care providers" who act at the direction of a licensed physician, permitting them to distribute contraceptive information and devices.

Another significant portion of the law states that a physician or health care provider under his direction is legally allowed to dispense contraceptive information and devices to any person who, "in the good faith judgment of the physician or such provider, is sufficiently intelligent and mature to understand the nature and significance thereof." There is no specific age limit.

"My opinion is that the care of minors is included in there," Bushnell said, as long as the doctor makes the decision that the person is capable of receiving individual decision.

It's a factual, individual decision," he said. "It's a judgement the physician will have to make. . . there is no cutoff point." Bushnell said the way the new law is drafted will make it difficult to challenge a doctor's decision.

"It makes it possible for people to make their own choice," Bushnell added. "It's particularly desirable as an alternative to abortion."

places the decision at the right place," he said, emphasizing that he felt a woman should have the ability and opportunity to make an effective choice before pregnancy.

Dr. Wayne Carter, medical director of the South Central District Health Department, said he anticipates a policy change by the district when the new legislation becomes law on July 1. He said that the new law, in his opinion, would open the clinics throughout Idaho to minors without parental permission.

Carter said that he expected that the Idaho attorney general would be asked to give an opinion on the new law. Carter, who works in the clinic with other local physicians, said of the possible request for an opinion, "I don't think it's particularly necessary for me . . . but as far as the other physicians, I think they would like to know where they stand."

Senate not quaking over prospect of trial

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON—The Senate is not quivering in its boots about the prospect of an impeachment trial of President Nixon. That's the word from Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who resents any suggestion that the upper body of the Congress lives in fear of a full-scale trial of the President.

He reiterated his belief that "as of now" the Senate lacks a two-thirds vote to remove the President from office. He said he didn't see a straight party vote for or against conviction because the President has considerable strength among Southern Senators.

He also said that he strongly favors televising a possible Senate trial, because of the "extraordinary importance" of the event, insisting that it would be "a salutary exposure of democracy in action." To that extent, he said, he disagreed with Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., who recently called upon the President to resign to avoid, among other things, a "humiliating" trial in the Senate. He praised Buckley's "courage" in making his statement, however.

"Anybody who tries to make a claim of himself on television would pay a heavy price," Mansfield said. The Senate leader said he was "proud of the forbearance of Democrats" in their refusal to make "a political football" of the Watergate inquiry.

Mansfield was critical of Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., who has said he would introduce legislation granting the President immunity from prosecution if Nixon were to resign.

"We don't want another Agnew situation," Mansfield said, referring to the former vice president's resignation after plea bargaining on charges of bribery, fraud and extortion. Agnew pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) to a charge of tax evasion.

If Mills' proposal were accepted by the president, the senator said, it would be "an admission of guilt." Mansfield said he agreed with Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania. He said it would be a good idea if a truck were backed up to the White House for material that would clear up the Watergate scandal. "I think it would be a good idea, too," he said.

Mansfield questioned the wisdom of the President traveling abroad at a time of "court proceedings." He said he thought that would be a bad idea. At the same time, he noted that the President continues to have the power and responsibility to conduct the foreign policy of the nation, and he would support ongoing negotiations with the Russians.

Y pool drive merits support

A remarkable fund drive to raise money for the Twin Falls YMCA-YWCA swimming pool has struck a responsive chord in the community. In just one month more than $71,000 has been raised. Y director Chuck Upton is confident the $150,000 needed to finish the first indoor swimming pool here can be raised. And Y officials are so pleased with the response that they have decided to finish the pool even before the money is raised.

We can think of few projects as worthy as this one. The Twin Falls city pool serves the community well during the summer, but its use is sharply curtailed by seasonal considerations. The new Y indoor pool will be suitable for use year-around. Use of the pool in the winter months when other recreational opportunities are limited is particularly appealing.

Y officials stress the fact that the pool will be used by the whole community and not just YMCA-YWCA members. Upton suggests a wide range of uses for the pool including:

— School districts could set up swimming programs for students that even students would learn to swim, say, by the sixth or seventh grade. — Programs could be set up to teach handicapped or special education students to swim. Such programs could be conducted at a pace suited to the particular needs of the students involved in a private setting.

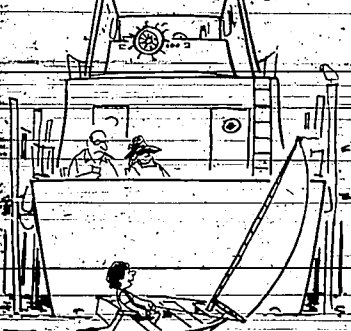

— The pool could be used by other charitable organizations, such as the Boy Scouts, for use in their aquatic training activities. — Upton foresees the pool open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. every hour with people learning or having fun or both. The pool drive deserves support and should get it.

Kent State justice

Christian Science Monitor
The weekend's Kent State incidents recognize that the law of the United States applies to all, including the men charged with upholding it. Only a police state would tolerate a lesser standard of justice. For a time it appeared the US was tolerating such a standard — a state ground jury made charges against students and "permissiveness," not against uniformed slayers of students. The US Attorney General, then John Mitchell, failed to call for a federal grand jury investigation.

But a few bereaved parents and supporters persisted in getting at the truth. "I want justice, not vengeance," said the father of one of the four who were killed. Now a federal grand jury has confirmed there was a reason to go into the case again. Returning indictments against eight men who were members of the National Guard of Ohio in 1970 when the tragedy took place.

The indictments show charges on connections. But they mark an exploration of the case through due process of law. Without this kind of exploration the American conscience will not rest.

'DEAR ANN LANDERS, EVERY TIME THE PHONE RINGS, MY HUSBAND

Like sin, taxes, streaking demands stand

WASHINGTON—The temptation is strong to ignore the current college fad of "streaking." It is pure exhibitionism, an effort to attract attention. Yet, like sin and taxes, it exists. Clearly, a stand should be taken for or against. That's easy, the Puritan in me says. Human beings should not sin about in the altogether. There are even laws against indecent exposure. Anyway, it's not nice. Streaking should be condemned, attacked, assailed, rapped, repudiated, rebuked, denounced, censured, excoriated, damned.

But the realist wins out. Streaking may be sinful, but mostly it is silly — and unattractive. It is a reminder that the 18-year-olds to whom an expedition Congress so swiftly awarded the vote are still children who should have been required to grow up before getting the franchise, lest they elect Jane Fonda President as a gag.

Most of us bladders privately feel we are not unworthy in the public place to take an occasional pot-belly and a spindly calf. But we would not dance undressed down Main Street because we are no longer children. We probably would have done so when we were 18 or 20 because in those days parents took a rigid stand against certain forms of exhibitionism.

ANDREW TULLY

Of course they were, in fact, parents in those square days. They knew how to crack down on kids. Circumstances, the college student who was caught streaking forthwith would receive a communication notifying him or her that as of that date his/her allowance had been canceled or ordering him/her to report to his/her homelown jute mill for a term of hard labor. But, enough nostalgia: We live in the time that is, not the time that was. We live in the time that streaking occasionally is an exercise in bad taste. The kids know that most adults are offended by streaking, so they do it. The argument that a college student has a "right" to run about naked runs counter to the general public's right not to be affronted by his nakedness on street or campus.

Close-minded no-swimwear-at-anytime purists, the pictures I've seen of male and female streakers leave me more affronted than angry. So far, no streaker brought to my attention has displayed the equipment to be charged with indecency. There are no Greek gods or goddesses in that lot, but simply some kids — and nutty grownups — who still need Mama around to see that they're properly attired. Their antics have no style. Showoffs are never stylish.

There's nothing sensuous or frisky about streaking," said a girl student at Memphis State College, where the fad originated.

Streakers, but the school officials said, attract would not turn out to watch them run around in racecoat coats and gym suits. The more fact the streakers are seen, the more sexual overtones. After all, human beings are still divided into two sexes, and as another said, obviously without thinking — "You don't have time to look at the face, too."

As well, they're not over 18, suppose. Youth is seldom fatal. And as an editorial sage once wrote about sex: "You can preach against it, pass laws against it, and write editorials against it, but you ain't ever going to succeed in making it unpopular with the masses."

People being human, truer words were never spoken: But streaking forces sex on the innocent bystander. It is, if I may reach, way down for an understatement, an inconsiderate act. Have a nutty, kids, and quick it over.

Power flow reversing

WASHINGTON—Almost without public notice, the Congress last week passed a watershed point. By this summer, if all goes well, a Budget Reform Act will be in law. It will alter the relationship between the legislative and executive branches which have been significantly altered.

The watershed metaphor is remarkably appropriate. Geographically speaking, Washington's river is the Potomac. Politically speaking, our river is power. For the past 40 years, first slowly and then in flood, this river of power has been channeled toward the White House. The movement began even before Franklin D. Roosevelt. It continued steadily day. Now, with the Budget Reform Act, some part of governmental power will begin to flow back toward the House and Senate.

The growth of what Arthur Schlesinger has termed the "imperial" presidency was perhaps inevitable. Part of this massive trend of power toward the executive was the result of population changes and social demands. Our people became less rural and more urban; and the accelerating urbanization created accelerating problems. Where state and local governments could not cope, the federal government stepped in to provide solutions. These agencies, dealing with welfare, medical care, housing, urban redevelopment, industrial safety, and environmental improvement, swiftly became entrenched in the broad field of government.

The years since Roosevelt have seen other developments — space exploration, for example, and atomic power — that led to highly sophisticated federal agencies. The changing nature of warfare tended to vest greater authority in the presidency. Inflation sent all governmental costs soaring.

Sen. Sam Ervin spoke of the situation last month. In January, he said, when the budget for fiscal '75 went to the Hill, it was "with a sense of helplessness" that Congress contemplated the figures. This budget "breaks the $300 billion barrier, lifts the federal debt above the half-trillion mark, increases federal spending $35 billion above the amount first estimated for this year, requires $30 billion just to pay interest costs on the public debt, and delivers the fourteenth budget deficit in the past 15 years."

"At this rate the budget is growing," Ervin added, "it will exceed $400 billion during this decade. By the time the US celebrates the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence in 1976, the government will be spending more than $1 billion a day, with no letup on Sundays."

JAMES KILPATRICK

Congress in Ervin's view, has lost control. The White House effectively has decreed what will be spent and what will not be spent, and a Congress "that cannot control spending, cannot effectively control the executive branch either."

With approval last week of a Budget Reform Act, the Senate took a major step toward reclaiming congressional stewardship. The Senate bill must be reconciled with a House bill, but the outlines of a new structure are clear. For the first time, the Congress will have its own Office of the Budget. For the first time, the House and Senate will fix their own spending level. For the first time, Congress will operate with a comprehensive picture of revenues coming in and expenditures going out.

FEO house of cards may collapse on Simon

WASHINGTON—During the delay by President Nixon in nominating William Simon as secretary of the Treasury, organization and personnel problems never solved by Simon as federal energy czar are being seized as arguments against his appointment.

The odds are still overwhelming that Simon will succeed George Shultz at treasury, perhaps when Shultz returns from South America. But meanwhile, critics of Simon — in the White House, in the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), and even in the upper reaches of the treasury — are using the delay to fight the appointment.

Nor is time on Simon's side. He made a reputation and many enemies by taking hold of the drifting energy program last December. Without worrying about organizational matters, Simon's energy crisis has eased, disorganization and deterioration morale at Simon's Federal Energy Office (FEO) are surfacing.

Accordingly, there is an element of truth to what is said by Simon's detractors — his nomination as secretary of the treasury, and better be soon or the FEO house of cards he built may collapse on him.

Hints of collapse, some spread by Simon's enemies, received their first official confirmation in the newly formed Federal Trade Commission (FTC) staff report.

EVANS & NOVAK

The FTC staff blames not only impossible Congressional deadlines but FEO's policy-making for an impossible administrative burden. It warns of the program collapsing amid deteriorating cooperation from the public and industry. Contending Simon's successes have been built on public cooperation, the FTC report attributes this to a "good press," then adds: "There is serious concern as to whether this current 'overburdened and untrained' program can maintain this image."

An even worse situation is reported by concerned middle-level officials at FEO itself, such as John Venners, recently resigned as FEO's Congressional lobbyist. In a memorandum to Simon March 15, Venners described organizational chaos — "One is left with the feeling that there is a total lack of internal cooperation and cohesion — and sometimes perhaps competition — among the various offices and branches within the organization."

While reporting "tremendous progress" by FEO, the Venners memo warns that "vacuum" of authority mean "a constant interagency struggle that is detrimental to the agency." His recommendation to Simon: "A senior staff meeting under your chairmanship where the used-out-on-the-frontal-attack corps of the petty, stab-in-the-back behavior cease forthwith."

Venners concludes with a warning paralleling grumbles seeping from FEO for weeks: "Very frankly, the morale of the employees of FEO is very low. The enthusiasm and esprit de corps of last December no longer exist in much of the agency." Other FEO staffers say much worse behind Simon's back, carrying grim reports to White House aides. Long ago, Simon's independence and flamboyance.

Finally, Simon has made enemies on Capitol Hill, partly because of trying to win favor among senior Democrats. His relationship with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, has included advance tips to Jackson on FEO decisions.

But Simon's Congressional friends are most important. And his enemies. Republican leaders regard him an infinitely more flexible and politically astute than Shultz. At a time of Republican troubles, they feel something other than Shultz's stability is needed. That is why Sen. Barber Conable of New York, chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, recently urged Nixon to urge Simon's nomination.

This is no time for the President to ignore the Barber Conables, and he would be in trouble with them if he heeded the advice of Simon's enemies. All the same, Simon would breathe a lot easier if Nixon moved quickly before the FEO house of cards may collapse.

Michigan visit bid: GOP invitation, challenge

SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI)—It seemed less an invitation than a challenge to the President of the United States.

"I'm not asking him to come here to boost my candidacy," said James M. Sparling, the Republican candidate in a special 8th Congressional District election April 10, who had asked Richard M. Nixon last night to visit the district on April 10.

"I just think he should get out of the White House where he is isolated and face the people," Sparling said he wanted

President Nixon to come for some "tough, no nonsense answers" on inflation, the economy, unemployment, the energy crisis, and Watergate and its "miserable ramifications."

Meanwhile, the Washington Post, quoting a "well informed Republican source," reported Nixon had tentatively decided to visit the district on April 10th.

But the official word from White House Press Secretary Ronald F. Ziegler when asked if Nixon would go to Michigan was, "I'm not prepared to talk about it."

"We did not make or take the initiative," Ziegler said.

Sparling, who worked for 10 weeks last summer as a White House aide, said he invited Nixon to visit the district although many other state GOP leaders opposed it.

"I don't want any part of it," said Robert Grant, the Saginaw County GOP chairman and organizer of Sparling's campaign. "I don't think we need

But GOP National Chairman George Bush said he hopes Nixon accepts the invitation.

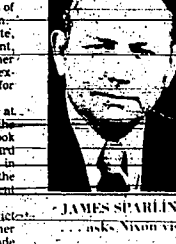

Sparling and his Democratic opponent, State Sen. J. Robert Traxler, are in a runoff election to fill the unexpired term of James Harvey, a Republican who held the district for 13 years and resigned last year to accept a lifetime appointment as federal judge in southeast Michigan.

No Democrat has won in the district since the 1950s.

parts of seven counties north of Detroit since the Depression.

But because of Watergate, the economy, unemployment, the energy crisis and other problems, many political experts forecast a victory for Traxler.

Traxler has hit hard at Watergate all through the campaign, strategy that took Democratic candidate Richard Vander Veer to an upset win in February in a race to fill the vacant seat of the late be the last nail in the President's coffin," Vander Veer said.

"If the President takes a personal hand in the campaign and finds the reaction the same as we've found, it's a sure bet we'll have a real fight," Vander Veer said.

Other Democrats said they believed Sparling's attempt to put even more distance between himself and the President and thus blunt much of the Traxler campaign strategy.

Councilwoman ousted

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—Lord Mayor Urban Hansen ordered in a vote Tuesday to oust Councilwoman Pene Schmedes from a municipal council meeting because she brought her seven-month-old son to the session.

There were continuing reports on whether Miss Schmedes, 27, angrier than the Lord Mayor by starting to beatified her baby during the session.

Witnesses said that Hansen could not accept the child's presence in the chamber. Together with a messenger, he went up to Miss Schmedes' seat and asked her to leave with the child immediately. She was allowed to follow the session from the gallery, however.

Check votes for election

Editor, Times-News:

For the past fortnight we, the people have been treated to more of the same exchange and wonderful political news coverage, such as your aging Congressmen's campaign in this case, Sen. Fulbright and Rep. Mills—counseling the presidential incumbent to break down and pay his back income tax in order to forestall possible impeachment—for failing to pay his back income taxes.

Were Al Capone still alive and kicking, he would be quite justified in imitating his civil servant's behavior. In fact, he would doubtless have been pardoned two years ago in return for the Cook County underworld vote.

How many of our recent news photographs of Nixon spinning his yo-yo in Missouri, Nixon receiving a bottle of tabasco sauce from a colored restaurant waitress and Nixon, beating in on the Grand Ole Opry program to play and sing "God Bless America."

If this is called taking his case to the American people, we are not impressed. Moreover, we are at a loss to know which case he refers to.

Our voting populace is often juvenile and sometimes fanatical, but not yet, I trust, entirely imbecile.

When official impeachment occurs, which it reasonably should, we must carefully mark the sentiment of our House and our Senate vote by O.P. in this column. We should know how to proceed intelligently at the polls.

Otherwise, the expression "We the people" is an obsolete figure of speech.

Col. Porter thanked for aid

Editor, Times-News:

Forty-five years ago a young man—from Twin Falls graduated from high school and commenced a career in the service of his country via the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Upon graduation from the academy his man went on to serve his country in World War II. He was captured and held prisoner for several years. The adage that old soldiers never stop serving their country is most surely true in this case.

Col. Gwynn Porter is currently teaching at Twin Falls High School and in addition to being one of the most respected members of the faculty, has engaged in dedicating himself to helping other high school students desiring to follow in his footsteps.

Colonel Porter has written countless recommendations given valuable advice whenever it was needed, tutored students individually and taught a special preparatory math class for all academy-bound pupils.

His presence is a source of the goodness of the colonel's heart and because of the unselfish help he is.

This family would just like to say a special thank you to Col. Gwynn Porter for the assistance he has given us and all other students contemplating a military career at an academy.

Streak poll draws comment

Editor, Times-News:

You didn't poll me about my reaction to "streaking."

First, "streaking" seems on the surface to be "something new under the sun," and therefore "newsworthy." But the second look (the one that counts) might reveal that all of us "streaked" into this world, and those who loved us first also plied us and gave us covering, which warmed us and often handsome — yeah, even beautiful — and always, gentleness — knows, an improvement, even as lovely gems from the Gem State are enhanced by the jeweler's art.

Not are these attendants at our birth — who clothed our vulnerability and shyness nakedness on our first day unique. The Creator Himself provided "coats of skin" for our first ancestors as they moved out into this world.

Moreover, when our Lord came one day to Gadara. He was met by a "streaker" who was wildly rebellious against the folks among whom he lived

Luke 8:26-35. Our Lord cast out a group of demons who had set up housekeeping in the poor fellow and he was able to sit down at the table with him straight for the first time in many a moon.

And a herd of nearby pigs weren't about to play host to any such creatures. They all chose suicide by a high dive into the sea.

That's probably enough said by a common everyday variety of grass roots Christian.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Sway back relief suggestions offered

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the best thing to do for a 10-year-old granddaughter is to have a specific posture when she grows up if they don't try to do something now.

She is slim and active but when she stands still she looks as though she is leaning back, and pushing her tummy out. Is there something she could wear to help? Mrs. C.M.

Sway back is an exaggerated forward curvature of the lower spine. I am not familiar with any particular means of correcting this since it usually is a matter of development of the spine.

I can make only these suggestions:

Have your granddaughter checked by your physician or an orthopedic specialist to make sure that no other spinal abnormality is involved.

If that doesn't help, the youngster should make herself conscious of her posture, since slouching tends to push the abdomen forward and makes the sway back that much more noticeable.

I have no knowledge of braces or anything of that sort that will help her back.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has had a painful back for some time, and the podiatrist diagnosed it as gout. Can you give any information on this condition?

Diagnosed it as gout, or suspected it to be gout? Treating gout is in the field of medicine, not podiatry. However, it can be dealt with by medication to reduce the amount of uric acid in the system — that being the cause of gout. I suggest your husband send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed return envelope to me in care of this newspaper and ask for my booklet, Gout. The Modern Way to Stop It. It will explain what he needs to know about gout.

Dear Dr. Thosteson, I have seen you suggest the use of alcohol for disinfecting areas of the skin. Is the isopropyl rubbing alcohol commonly found in drug stores satisfactory for this purpose? There is no mention on the label of any antiseptic value. I don't seem to find any other type of alcohol on display.

Also, is it true that soap and detergents have disinfectant properties? T. L. K.

Yes, isopropyl alcohol is used as an antiseptic on the skin. It is also used in the treatment of injecting insulin. Ethyl alcohol (the kind of alcohol in liquor) is good for this, too, but is somewhat more expensive and of the alcohol type which applies to it.

Isopropyl alcohol isn't more popular as an antiseptic is, because it doesn't leave a stain as the other, more commonly used antiseptics. It is biologically safe, and it is more easily evaporated than the others.

Soap and detergents have excellent antiseptic properties, removing skin oils as well as dirt and carrying away germs that may be in them. That's the process of cleaning an area for an operation. Wash it first, then apply alcohol.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you explain why an epileptic should not drink alcoholic beverages? A. W.

Alcohol depresses the nervous system. Drugs for epileptic seizures, certain vitamins of the brain, so the two effects can augment each other.

Dinner climaxes National Foster Parent Week

TWIN FALLS — National Foster Parent Week, March 31 to April 6 will be climaxed here with a dinner April 6 honoring outstanding foster parents of Magic Valley.

The dinner will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Holiday Inn. Erma Shropshire, in charge of foster care in Region 5, Department of Environmental and Community Services, said one house parent will be honored for length of service and others will be singled out for special recognition on other grounds.

Foster parents from all eight Magic Valley counties will be attending and from the foster parents' organizations. These include one in Twin Falls, another in the Burley-Hupert area, one in Blaine County and a fourth in Jerome and Teton counties.

Mrs. Shropshire said this is the only region in the state with more than one foster parent organization and interest has been outstanding. There are about 100 foster homes now licensed in the region and more are needed, she said.

One of the major needs of this and other regions, she said, is for group homes where four to eight youngsters can live as a family rather than be a single foster child in a single home.

"What we need is another Harbor House in Twin Falls," she said, "and one or two in other areas of the valley."

Harbor House being placed in Foster House have an excellent opportunity in group living where the attention is divided among the children rather than centered on one. She said Harbor House is filled to capacity at all times and doing an outstanding job under the direction of house parents Mr. and Mrs. Foster Stone.

"At this time we have an especially great need for a group home for teen-age girls," she said. "I believe we could use accommodations for 15 to 18 girls over 12 years of age at all times if we could find another community group such as the Harbor House board to provide us with facilities," she said.

In Blaine County, The Other Side of Time, a similar foster home establishment, also provides a much needed service, she said.

Harbor House accepts both boys and girls but with additional facilities, similar to the home, separate group living facilities could be provided for boys and girls, making the job of the house parents much easier, she said.

Mrs. Shropshire said there are about 100 foster children in homes in the valley now.

"The trend is away from institutions and toward community living facilities for children who cannot live in their own homes," she said. "One day there will be a need for a shelter-type facility for children needing only an overnight or one to two day home."

Another need in this area is a foster home facility for handicapped children. Plans now being made by DECS to include pay on a basis of the extent of care needed by the child, rather than a flat rate per day per child for all foster homes.

Because of the shortage of foster home facilities, she said, DECS is continuously seeking facilities in as much wider areas including other parts of the state, or even out of state, wherever we can place them.

Mrs. Shropshire said the Idaho Youth Ranch fills a great need for boys and a similar facility for girls would solve many problems in the area.

Now that youth rehabilitation services have been combined with DECS, this need is more apparent to that department, she said.

There is a national organization now working to expand foster parent interest in the community. It is known as National Action for Foster Children.

It provides activities for persons not wishing to be foster parents, but interested in helping promote foster home programs. She said formation of such a group in Magic Valley would be helpful and urged persons willing to help with such an association to contact her at DECS.

Persons working with National Foster Parent week observance include Mrs. Dale Crist, Twin Falls; Mrs. Gordon Hart, Kimberly; Mrs. Richard Jordan, Twin Falls; and Mrs. Ivan Meyers, Wendell, banquet committee members, and Gale Keen, Burley, master of ceremonies.

A speaker from the Idaho Youth Ranch will be included on the banquet program.

Banquet prepared

FAMILY decorations for the banquet banquet Saturday night in Twin Falls are being prepared by Mrs. Gordon Hart, Kimberly; Mrs. Ronald Reynolds, Elmer; and Mrs. LaMar Orin, Buhl, from left. The dinner will climax a week-long foster parent observance.

April workshop slated

TWIN FALLS—Playing the energy game with the time accelerator machine was designed by two scientists, John Armend, Montana State University, and John Yegge, assistant chairman of Oak Ridge Associated Universities' Special Training Division, Oak Ridge, Tenn., is a national center for atomic energy research.

The idea, according to one scientist involved with the workshop, is to get people thinking about energy and the environment. Nature took millions of years to build up reserves of fossil fuels. At the rate things are going, they'll be gone in a few hundred years. The big question is, "Then what?"

The AEC hopes to "provide opportunities for concerned citizens to become more involved in the decision-making process connected with energy and environment problems at the local, state and national levels." In sponsoring the workshops, the program is aimed at participation by members of civic, service and social clubs, community organizations and interested citizens.

The first hour is an audience-participation lecture, discussing the production, use and environmental effect of energy.

The second hour centers on the game with the energy-environment simulator, and the final hour is set aside for general discussion. The workshops are intended to help participants formulate ways of understanding and coping with energy-environment problems on a local and national level. The public is invited to attend.

Beggar loses lifetime savings

LIMA (UPI)—Manuel Chavez Valderama, who spent 32 years as a beggar in this city and planned to retire, decided to take a bath for the first time in many years.

He took his pants off and while he was bathing in a public fountain he saw a thief take his pants with his lifetime savings—some $18,000, police said.

Paddling prohibited

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Austin teachers will be prohibited from paddling students beginning next fall under a new policy adopted by the school board.

The policy, approved 6-1 Monday night, states that paddling shall be administered only by the principal or his designate, and shall be done in the presence of a witness and, as soon after the punishable offense as possible.

The policy also suggests that parents of a child be notified before the paddling is possible, and that principals never paddle a student in anger.

Lawmaker backs 'pot'

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Pot-smoking state Rep. Perry Bullard today launched a petition drive to partly legalize marijuana possession and use.

At a news conference, Bullard, an Ann Arbor Democrat, called the drive to put the question before the voters a "spontaneous effort."

"We are sick and tired of having people hassled in their homes and cars," Bullard said. "We are sick and tired of having people beaten and locked up in jail for use of marijuana."

"Nineteen seventy-four is the year we should stop imprisoning adult smokers in Michigan for their private, personal use of marijuana."

The proposal would permit possession and private use of marijuana for persons over 18, but sale and delivery of the substance would still be prohibited.

It would also abolish jail penalties for pot-growing while permitting local governments to prohibit public pot smoking by imposing fines of up to $100.

Bullard said organizers from Detroit, Ann Arbor and East Lansing will try to collect more than the required 255,617 signatures before July 4, four days before the deadline to get the question on the November ballot.

"This will give us four days to get the petitions together to submit to the secretary of state for certification," Bullard said.

Further, asking people to return the petitions by Independence Day is a way of symbolizing the central reason for trying to change the marijuana laws.

"As Thomas Jefferson said, the legitimate powers of the government extend to such acts only as are injurious to others."

Bullard said non-smokers will be counted on to make the drive successful. A similar petition drive was unsuccessful in 1972.

Fish Climbs Trees

A tropical fish called the mudkipper climbs trees. The four-inch-long fish has special gills that enable it to remain out of water for hours and powerful fins that can grip small trees.

Women take top 3 places

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI)—A funny thing happened when they let women jockeys run with men jockeys for the first time in a horse race, Monday: Women placed, first, second and third.

Seven women raced against 15 girls in the Ladbrokes' Ladies and Lassies Amateur handicap.

Most of the lady-jockeys began putting on their makeup 30 minutes before the race, lining up at mirrors placed in an ambulance room they used as a changing room.

Linda Goodwill, 21, rode Pegasus to an early lead and held the lead all the way through the 1 1/2 mile race to win at odds of 11-1.

Carol Stevens on Goddard was second at 33-1 and Jacky Thorne on Beaming Lee third at 2-1.

Fourth across the finish line was a horse named March Malena. His amateur rider was Hugh Hodges, a man.

'The Sting' wins top honors

Supporting roles

JOHN HOUSMAN, left in top picture, accepts his Oscar as best supporting actor for his performance in "The Paper Chase." HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Sting," which opened last year to mixed reviews, won seven Academy Awards, including Best Picture of 1973, Tuesday night. Glenda Jackson and Jack Lemmon won the top acting prizes.

The annual Oscars presentation show in the Music Center, was interrupted briefly by a fire streaker, who ran nude across the stage in view of millions watching television, just before Elizabeth Taylor announced the best picture award.

Lemmon, who portrayed a quill-ridden businessman in "Save the Tiger," became the first actor to win Oscars for both best actor and best supporting actor. He won best supporting actor in 1955 for "Mr. Roberts." Helen Hayes holds both awards for actresses.

Miss Jackson picked up her second Oscar for a comedy performance in "A Touch of Class," in which she portrayed a worldly London divorcee who had an affair with a married American.

"The Exorcist," a box office smash about demonic possession, had been a favorite, but it took only two awards for sound and screenplay from another medium.

Ten-year-old Tatum O'Neal, who played a gullible con girl in "Paper Moon," was named best supporting actress and John Huston, the intellectual, best directing.

"The Sting," starring Paul Newman and Robert Redford, marked the first time Universal Pictures had won the Academy Award for best picture since "All Quiet on the Western Front" in 1930.

The nationally televised ceremony was briefly interrupted by a fire streaker who ran across the stage as David Niven was introducing Elizabeth Taylor for the finale of the evening, the announcement of the best picture.

Some winners in recent years, such as George C. Scott and Maureen O'Hara, have turned their backs on the Oscar, criticized its value or used the occasion, as Brando did last year, to promote a cause.

In recent years especially, there has been a growing criticism about this award, and probably a great deal of that criticism is justified.

Lemmon said in his acceptance speech.

"I would just like to say that whether it is justified or not, it is one hell of an honor, and I am thrilled."

Ruins Save Carthage Some of the finest carvings of antiquity survive today because the Persian capital of Persepolis was sacked in 331 B.C. — A thousand years later, when Muslims occupied the ruins, they destroyed all sculpture they found because their faith forbade images. They missed the ones buried in the rubble which were not found until dug up by archeologists in the 19th century.

Budget, enrollment top board agenda

Wednesday, April 3, 1974—Times-News-Twin Falls, Idaho—11

By DAVID ESPO
T-N Capitol Bureau

MOSCOW — Idaho Board of Education members began three days of meetings Tuesday at the University of Idaho.

They have $37.5 million to divide among the state's four colleges and universities.

Also on the agenda are the problems of how to compute full-time equivalent student enrollments for the state's junior colleges as well as the four-year institutions.

Board members are also expected to discuss either publicly or in private the improper diversion of funds at Boise State University (BSU) in 1970 for remodeling of administration buildings.

BSU President Dr. John Barnes may also have to explain the relationship between his school and the Bronco Athletic Association and go over with board members the results of an audit completed by the legislative auditor last month.

The state legislature appropriated $36.8 million from the general fund for the University of Idaho, Idaho State University, BSU and Lewis-Clark State College.

In addition, lawmakers voted $764,000 from surplus funds for capital outlay at the schools. Board members will decide Thursday how much of the money goes to each of the schools.

One of the top board members later for determining how to allocate funds is full-time equivalent enrollments (FTEs). Recent disclosures, however, have shown that the four schools were not computing the FTEs in an identical fashion.

One state lawmaker, Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said in a floor speech late in the session the legislature was getting "shafted" as a result.

"I think that the Office of Higher Education and the state board of education should in their April session... adopt a uniform procedure for all four institutions and recommend the same to our two junior colleges."

The question of computing FTEs at Junior Colleges was the subject of dispute during the legislature because state law permits the College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College to count enrollments for only two semesters during the year. Both schools have scheduled programs which require trimester enrollments.

Board members are also expected to discuss with Barnes the legislative audit that the legislature received last month.

Among its findings was that Barnes had permitted the diversion of funds from a student-financed revenue bond issue into unauthorized administrative office remodeling. Earlier, the Times-News and Lewiston Morning Tribune had reported the same findings.

The paper also reported the private auditing firm that audits the BSU books had failed to report the diversion for three years. They also reported the firm had discussed the diversion with BSU officials without reporting it to state officials when it was brought to their attention.

Representative of the firm, Bruce Ross and Co., is expected to be at the board's meeting to discuss the auditing of the university.

The Tribune later reported that revenue from the $300-a-seat seats in the President's Club at the BSU (football stadium) goes directly into the bank account of the Bronco Athletic Corp., a private corporation. The BAA purchases the tickets from the school for resale.

The paper also reported that, while much of the money is returned to the school's athletic department, the arrangement differs from those in effect at the state's two other universities.

The board is expected to ask Barnes about the arrangement.

French mourn Pompidou death; cabinet sets successor choice

PARIS (UPI) — The cabinet met today to organize elections within a month for a new French chief of state after the sudden death of President Georges Pompidou.

One of the top cabinet members later for determining how to allocate funds is full-time equivalent enrollments (FTEs). Recent disclosures, however, have shown that the four schools were not computing the FTEs in an identical fashion.

One state lawmaker, Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said in a floor speech late in the session the legislature was getting "shafted" as a result.

Both schools have scheduled programs which require trimester enrollments.

Board members are also expected to discuss with Barnes the legislative audit that the legislature received last month.

Among its findings was that Barnes had permitted the diversion of funds from a student-financed revenue bond issue into unauthorized administrative office remodeling. Earlier, the Times-News and Lewiston Morning Tribune had reported the same findings.

The paper also reported the private auditing firm that audits the BSU books had failed to report the diversion for three years. They also reported the firm had discussed the diversion with BSU officials without reporting it to state officials when it was brought to their attention.

Representative of the firm, Bruce Ross and Co., is expected to be at the board's meeting to discuss the auditing of the university.

The Tribune later reported that revenue from the $300-a-seat seats in the President's Club at the BSU (football stadium) goes directly into the bank account of the Bronco Athletic Corp., a private corporation. The BAA purchases the tickets from the school for resale.

The paper also reported that, while much of the money is returned to the school's athletic department, the arrangement differs from those in effect at the state's two other universities.

The board is expected to ask Barnes about the arrangement.

With the ministers all in black ties, the cabinet met for 40 minutes under Prime Minister Pierre Messmer. Messmer then drove directly to the Luxembourg Palace to confer on the details with Pöhl.

The eight-man Constitutional Council, which is the watchdog of French political procedure, also met. Its job is to proclaim officially a vacancy in the presidency.

The President, in a handwritten testament dated August 1972, asked that his burial take place without public pomp.

A spokesman at the Elysee presidential palace said, "He wants only that a mass be said for him after the funeral at which he must be buried."

Pompidou said he wanted no flowers and a headstone over the grave simply bearing his name.

French government officials declined to comment on speculation that President Mitterrand and European leaders may hold a summit meeting in Paris after the funeral.

"We do not have a complete list of who will come to pay respects," one official said.

The two leading contenders are believed to be former Prime Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas, dismissed by Pompidou just as Charles de Gaulle once dismissed him, and Francois Mitterrand, the near permanent candidate of the left.

Both had fought the Gaullist Alliance (Gaullist-Democratic Alliance) Chaban-Delmas has performed well in opinion polls despite the alleged income-tax scandals that led to his removal. Mitterrand is a former Interior Minister and a long-time socialist.

Israel command change report raps unreadiness

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's high command, charged with the task of providing a rare glimpse into the Israeli intelligence and decision-making structure, has been criticized in the most scathing official criticism of Israeli's armed forces in the country's 30-year history.

Recommended changes to avoid repeating the mistakes that preceded the 1973 Middle East war.

Maj. Gen. Itzhak Hafi, 40, took over as chief of staff, succeeding Lt. Gen. David Elazar, 49. The commission held Elazar chiefly responsible for failure to mobilize in time an accusation the staff denied.

A report by the five-member commission, appointed to find the reasons for Israel's unexpected defeat for the war that cost more than 2,500 dead, said Elazar, as well as the chief of military intelligence, Maj. Gen. Shimon Peres, and Zeira's three assistants, should be fired.

The commission virtually exonerated the prime minister, Mrs. Golda Meir, and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

"We have reached general agreement that the chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, carried personal responsibility for what happened on the eve of the war, both in the matter of evaluating the situation and the army's state of alert," the commission said.

Elazar said in his letter of resignation, "I believe the errors attributed to me and the weight given to them do not justify the severe conclusions the commission has made concerning me."

Reserve Maj. Gen. Ariel Arzi, Elazar's second in command, said, "When I read the report, I felt deep sorrow that we had reached such a state."

Three factors that Elazar himself named as the reasons for the defeat were:

—A stubborn adherence to the notion that Egypt would never wage all-out war unless it was able to smother the Israeli air force with its F-4 Phantom II strikes into Israel.

—Assurances by the chief of military intelligence, General Zeira, that the army would always receive sufficient advance notice before ordering a general mobilization of his reserves. "We find there was no basis to give the defense forces such an absolute promise," the minister wrote.

Fulbright says US backs Hanoi visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who is organizing a congressional trip to Hanoi for a complete accounting of U.S. soldiers missing in action, says he has the full backing of the State Department.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Tuesday he has been told the State Department not only has no objection to such a trip, it would spare no effort to "visit to North Vietnam would clear up at last the question of American MIA's."

Previous diplomatic efforts to determine the fate of the 1,300 servicemen still missing throughout Indochina have been unsuccessful, but Fulbright wants the Armed Services committees of both houses and the House Foreign Affairs and Senate Foreign Relations committees to go with him.

Fulbright said he had written Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Sunday seeking advice on how to proceed, and requesting assurances that the South Vietnamese government to such a mission.

He also released two paragraphs of a letter he sent the same day to Pham Van Don, North Vietnam's premier, urging an accounting of all MIA's.

Striking teachers defy court orders

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Striking teachers have defied two court orders to go back to work, and were walking the picket lines today.

Teachers returned to the city after a three-day strike only to picket, ignoring a Jackson County Circuit Court injunction issued Tuesday.

The teachers also rejected a temporary restraining order issued on the first day of the strike March 18. Now they face contempt of court charges.

Negotiations, however, were to resume between the teachers and the school board in an effort to resolve the 16-day strike.

Superintendent Hubert Medcalf announced late Tuesday the district would get back to work, but the teachers were broken off Sunday, "as soon as possible." Medcalf said he would head the board's negotiating team, a condition demanded by the teachers' union.

Prior to Medcalf's announcement, local union president James Hudson threatened to file suit to force the district back to work.

"If the board does not resume negotiations, we have authorized our attorneys to file a countersuit to compel the board to negotiate in good faith with the union," Hudson said.

Hudson said the union had made its 16 per cent pay raise demand, and had offered to submit to binding arbitration. He blamed the board for the impasse that kept schools closed.

Impeachment seen

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., Senate Watergate Committee chairman, said Tuesday night he believes President Nixon could be impeached for "crimes such as obstruction of justice" and "a fraudulent effort to avoid paying income taxes."

Ervin's definition of crimes that fall under the constitutional description of "treason, bribery, or other high crimes" brought applause from the predominantly student audience on the campus of Western Kentucky University.

Ervin described the Watergate scandal as a "conspiracy to rob the American people of their birthright to vote in a free election for the President of the United States."

He said the scandal was "unique in American history" because past cases of election fraud were committed by individuals rather than an organized national campaign committee.

Cops 'n' robbers play for keeps in California

Poor losers assault referee

VALENCIA, Spain (UPI) — Soccer referee Pedro Enobar had to leave a semi-professional game under police protection after local fans protested that he had helped the visitors to a 3-1 victory.

After his car stopped for a red light several miles from the field, some of those fans caught up with him, broke a window and beat him up.

FONTANA, Calif. (UPI) — It was a real life cops 'n' robbers chase that put to shame the zoom-and-smash episodes that have become standard in Hollywood police movies.

Two robbers took $4,000 from a supermarket Monday, confronted store manager Steve Bacoie-car keys and fled in his silver Buick.

Police Lt. Ben Abernathy was one of the customers in the store. He phoned for help, and as a patrol car roared up, Abernathy leaped aboard to direct the driver.

Cops and crooks sped through town, until the bandit's car slowed and one of the robbers jumped out with a sack of money and a saved-off shotgun.

The gunman opened fire and Abernathy returned the shots, but neither was hit. The gunman broke and ran, bolting through yards scrambling over fences, and dashing through homes, in the front door and out the back.

Abernathy stayed with him, until the bandit, who still had his shotgun, forced a homeowner to give him a car and keys, and sped away in the auto, leaving the frustrated Abernathy panting on foot and out of luck.

Meanwhile, more patrol cars joined the chase after the other bandit in the car. The robber was chased on to the grounds of the Kaiser steel mill, where officer Greg Thurman slapping the throttle of his police cruiser to the floor and rammed into the bandit's auto.

The robber's car was wrecked and the police car plunged into a ditch, exploded in flames and burned to a cinder. Thurman escaped with cuts and bruises.

Officers captured Theodore Winslow, 39, of Crestline, and Lt. Abernathy sent out a wanted bulletin for the suspect that got away, describing him as "tall, fast runner, good jumper."

25 bills signed

BOISE (UPI) — Twenty-five more bills have been signed into law by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, including two that appropriate more than $7.5 million for education.

Andrus Tuesday signed bills appropriating $5,630,400 for vocational rehabilitation and $2,020,400 for the state's junior colleges.

He also signed a bill providing equality of a husband and wife in management of community property.

College GOP names delegates

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho College Republican League today announced delegates to the 1974 Idaho Republican State Assembly.

Selected as delegates were Jay Bink, Twin Falls, and Sigurd Oenchain, Boise.

Alternates named to attend the GOP State Assembly June 21-23 in Sun Valley were Mark Kelley, Moscow, and Hank Harris of Boise.

Panel to hear arguments

BOISE (UPI) — Oral arguments will be heard by a three-man federal district court panel Thursday over reapportionment of the Idaho Legislature.

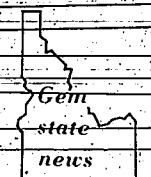

The panel will have before it a reapportionment plan adopted at the recent session of the Legislature as well as one by Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, to reduce the size of the Legislature from 105 to 90 members.

Supervisor named

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — The Forest Service has named Donald L. Biddison, Denver, as the supervisor of the 2.2 million acre Nezperce National Forest in north central Idaho.

Regional Forester Steve Ulrich said Biddison, 43, will report to his new post at Grangeville, Idaho, on April 28.

Biddison has been serving as assistant to the director of the division of recreation and lands in the Forest Service-Rocky Mountain Regional Headquarters for the past year. Prior to that he was supervisor of the Arapahoe National Forest at Golden, Colo., for three years.

Airman sentenced

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — An 18-year-old Mountain Home airman has been sentenced to five years in prison in the highway death of a Boise woman.

Lawrence Payton of Mountain Home Air Force Base had entered a guilty plea to a manslaughter charge March 5 and was sentenced Tuesday by District Judge Alfred C. Hagan.

Story clarified

TWIN FALLS — A story in Sunday's Times-News may have been misleading.

The story reported that the Idaho Supreme Court today will hear oral argument in Twin Falls in a case involving John H. Henningsway, Ketchum, who has appeared earlier in this suit, suing the Wood River Journal.

The suit was filed in 1972 against George Fritz, doing business as the Wood River Journal. The Ketchum newspaper has since been sold, and neither the Wood River Journal's current owners nor the Wood River Journal under its new ownership is involved in the suit.

Andrus to sign bill

BOISE (UPI) — A bill to provide "circuit breaker" tax relief will be signed into law today by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

The bill, which was proposed by Andrus in his budget message to the recent Legislature, will provide $1.5 million in property tax relief for the elderly.

The signing is expected to be witnessed by a number of county assessors.

The governor also said he would act today on a bill which would make it a felony to possess more than three ounces of marijuana.

Couple on probation

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise couple has been placed on two years probation of a charge of evading income tax for 1969.

The Internal Revenue Service said Tuesday that Clarence and Elmer Carleton, the owners of the Capital Exchange of Boise, were placed on probation by Federal Judge Ray McInnes.

Cassia supports community plan

BURLEY, Nev. — Community education and recreation are finding strong support with Cassia County residents and teachers.

A "sister" committee of 20 — school — teachers — and administrators, recreation leaders and concerned citizens has been formed to organize community activities in Burley.

The committee is chaired by Mrs. Joan Parr, county-home extension agent, and includes Burley parks and recreation director Jack Keen and Cassia County School District Supt. Harold Blauer.

A local listing community education courses, recreation facilities and activities and county extension programs is available at the county extension office.

"The community school concept revives the American tradition of making the school and its facilities the center of neighborhood activity and community betterment. The purpose is to help everyone, people of all ages, house their school buildings in activities and classes after school hours and evenings," according to the booklet.

"The booklet lists times and places for the courses and activities offered.

Part of the program is involved with offering "minicourses" for school children after regular school hours in a variety of subjects including dance, pottery and gymnastics. The courses are taught by parents and some school teachers on a volunteer basis.

The minicourses last for six weeks and children are encouraged to take a variety of courses. There are currently 17 courses underway with a maximum of 15 children per class. Mrs. Darlene Carlisle is the coordinator for the minicourse program.

Mrs. Erna Beckham, a minicourse and elementary school teacher said, "The program is getting people with the same interests together. It helps get rid of prejudice and problems."

She said the teachers in the community education program are not paid and only a small charge for whatever materials are used in a class is made.

"The program is having success 'getting the community together,'" she said. People taking the courses are grouped by interest, without consideration for age, race or grade level, she said.

Jerome less 1 patrol car

JEROME — The Jerome City Police Department is short one patrol car today.

Howard DuBois, chief of police, reported that patrolman George Silver was on route to a silent alarm at Wall's Transfer west of town when the police car he was driving was struck broadside by another vehicle.

Silver was headed west on Avenue A with his light flashing and alarm operating. He noticed another car approaching from the north on Cedar Street.

"The car apparently stopped at the intersection and proceeded, hitting the patrol car on the right side, driving it into a fireplug and pole. The patrol car ended up on the sidewalk in front of Volvo Inc., the former Northside Lumber," DuBois said.

He said the driver of the other vehicle, a 16-year-old Jerome girl, apparently panicked when she saw the patrol car. DuBois said he doesn't have the name of the driver since the accident was investigated by state police and they have not yet filed a report.

No one was injured in the mishap which occurred at about 7:10 p.m. Tuesday.

DuBois said usual procedure in answering a silent alarm is for the patrol car not to operate warning devices. He said the dispatcher was not aware that the service station had just closed. He said the silent alarm was tripped during locking the station for closure.

He said the dispatcher called the service station and when the station was closed it was assumed that a robbery was in progress.

DuBois said he thinks the patrol car will be declared a total loss by the insurance adjuster. He asked the City Council for permission to purchase another car without calling for bids.

He said the department now has only one patrol car and the city dog catcher's truck for police patrols. The department had just called for bids to replace another car. The bids are to be opened April 18.

The council decided to wait until the insurance adjuster checks the patrol car and have a special meeting to decide what will be done.

Jerome nabs 2 suspects

JEROME — Two men were in custody today in connection with a burglary at Cook's Market early this morning.

The two adult suspects were arrested at the market by Jerome City policemen at about 12:10 a.m. today.

Chief of Police Howard DuBois reported that the two men were apprehended in the act of burglarizing the food store. They allegedly broke a window in the store.

One suspect was taken outside the building, apparently stripping, turned and the other suspect was inside the building and managed to escape by a rear door. He was apprehended after a short chase.

The two men were expected to be arraigned today in magistrate court.

New law facilitates birth control info

Not all Family Planning Clinics in Idaho have a policy to require parental permission for treatment of minors. In Lewiston, for example, clinic physicians met and discussed the problem, but decided to not treat minors, a clinic official said.

Bushnell said, "we will make sure that each of the districts receives a copy of the bill and the amendment and that we basically describe the effects of the legislation." He praised the legislature for making "it possible for there to be an individualistic decision." He said, "we think this is a tremendous advantage."

General medical treatment of minors is a touchy question, since minors cannot legally give consent. A physician who treats a minor without first obtaining permission from the minor's parents may be liable in a civil or criminal suit.

Before the new legislation was approved, the Boise law firm of Moffatt, Thomas, Barrett & Blanton prepared a review of legal concerns involved in providing contraceptives to minors for the Ada County Medical Society.

In brief, the memo, dated December 13, said that treating minors and providing them with contraceptives involves "substantial criminal and civil implications" for a physician.

The review states, "In Idaho, 'persons' under the age of 18 are deemed to be minors and, with certain exceptions, are not capable of giving legal consent to treatment. In such cases as a general rule, a physician who provides medical care and treatment for a minor without first obtaining the consent of a parent or legal guardian of the minor will be liable in damages for such treatment."

The certain exceptions to the rule have been provided by the Idaho legislature which has passed laws which permit persons 16 years of age and older to seek treatment for drug addiction or dependency, and persons 14 years of age or older to seek treatment for communicable diseases, in both cases, without parental permission.

4-H programs seek minority support

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County 4-H leaders have been asked to recruit minority members to participate in local 4-H programs.

According to Lyn Merrick, Twin Falls County extension agent, the drive to increase minority enrollment follows a review by the federal Affirmative Action Program which determined that the state as a whole needs to improve minority enrollment in 4-H programs.

Merrick said the minority population in Twin Falls County is largely Mexican American. He said 4-H aides will shortly begin recruiting Chicano children at Bickel School, where the bulk of the city's minority schoolchildren — those from the South Park area — attend.

Current minority enrollment in county 4-H programs is less than one per cent, Merrick said. Last year, he said, there were only four children from minority group families enrolled in county 4-H clubs.

In addition to the enrollment effort at Bickel School, Merrick said, 4-H club leaders have been asked to recruit or invite participation of any minority members they know. He said there is a "remote possibility" that if minority enrollment in local 4-H programs is not increased the clubs could in the future lose part of their federal funding.

"There is no quota set up," Merrick said. "We have to show that we have made an effort to enroll minority members. We don't have to get X number enrolled. This is a volunteer program."

In addition to the drive to enroll minority members, the 4-H program is also being expanded among the city's white population.

Merrick said he said 4-H participation from the white population within the city limits was only about 15 per cent of those eligible. Four new clubs have been organized in the city since February, he said, and six more are being organized. He invited anyone wishing to participate in or lead a 4-H group to call him at 734-3300.

Merrick said he thought financial restrictions previously accounted for the lack of minority participation in 4-H programs. He discounted the effects of racial discrimination.

"They (the minority families) may not be able to afford the livestock or the sewing machine for their daughter to sew on," Merrick said. "This is one of the limiting factors. I really don't think the social level is quite as bad as some people make it out to be. They are just

No red dread at Buhl jail

Buhl — The Buhl city jail may have a red floor soon.

Police Chief Bernie Elmer told city commissioners Tuesday night the floor needs painting and it is "difficult to keep it clean."

Lawrence Fawcett, water and streets superintendent, first volunteered white paint, but the chief said it would be impractical.

"We have a lot of red traffic paint," Fawcett said. "If it stays on streets, it should stay on your floor for a long time."

Buhl hires 2 policemen

By LARRY VANCE OF SMITH Times-News Writer

Buhl — Two new policemen were hired at the Buhl City Council meeting here Tuesday night.

They are Rick Jordan, 22, who has worked briefly for the Buhl police staff, and Donald Thueson, 25, Jerome. Police Chief Bernie Elmer said the men's starting salary will be $565 per month, with the council to review their wages and performance Sept. 1.

Mayor Fred Fawcett emphasized the police department has been seriously understaffed because of two recent resignations, but that both county and state law enforcement officers will assist when needed.

Les Bernier, Buhl, appeared at the meeting to protest delay in checking a hit and run accident in which he was involved Sunday afternoon. He said he was told by the Buhl policeman on duty nothing could be done until Monday morning.

But Bernier also contacted the state police and the other driver, who had left the scene, was apprehended. This driver reportedly was a parole violator out of California, Bernier said. Mayor Fawcett and Councilman Jerry Hawkins, in charge of police operations, both said the problem arose from the department being understaffed with inexperienced help, but the mayor said fortunately the case was solved "by hook and crook."

Joyce Ellis, operator of Harrah Nursing Home, and several other residents on the 900 block of Sprague Avenue asked the council for help in combining the mud on their unpaved street. Mrs. Ellis said 85 per cent of the property owners have signed a petition agreeing to pay for paving.

Lawrence Fawcett, water and streets superintendent, said he would try to locate contractors on the project.

Les Monroe presented tentative plans for a mobile home park which would be located within a mile of the Buhl city limits. He said he will contact with the Environmental Protection Agency in Boise before determining if he will go ahead with plans for the project.

Councilmen tabled for further information a proposal from JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, to conduct a study on the city's sewer lagoon system to see if the discharge entering Snake River complies with federal standards.

In other business, councilmen:

Accepted the bid of Buhl Glass and Paint Co. for 60 gallons of paint for the city swimming pool.

Heard a letter from the Department of Environmental and Community Services indicating the city complies with state requirements on its water and sewage.

Discussed a reconfiguration of the city ordinances as part of the projects planned with revenue bonds funding City Atty. William Nungesser said this has not been done since 1955.

Appointed Hal Walker chairman of a citizen committee to combat graffiti in the community in the summer time.

Approved pool table licenses for Bligum's Barbecue and a lawnmower plumber's license for Ronnie Smith.

2 Pocatello men charged

BURLEY, Nev. — Two Pocatello men are being held as suspects in Burley burglary.

Frank Daniels, 36, and John D. Burns, 40, have been charged with attempted burglary and possession of marijuana, a misdemeanor, following their arrest at about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The arrests were made by patrolman Kevin Kelley and chief detective Pete Rodriguez.

Gardening, raising and rabbit raising, and research projects. He said, "we would be of special benefit to low-income families. He said the traditional image of 4-H clubs being restricted to costly livestock projects was misleading in terms of the projects in 4-H clubs, minority members were as eligible as anyone else to participate and take advantage of any of the agricultural extension programs on both the local and state levels.

A stereo tape player was destroyed in the attempt to move it, Corder said.

In the attempted calf theft, Corder said Larry Vickers was working in his corral west of Iron Falls Sunday afternoon when he spotted two men attempting to put one of his calves into their car. Vickers yelled at the men, Corder said, and the men dropped the calf and left in the car at a high rate of speed.

"That's a hell of a joke to play," Duncan said, "because he was the fool to run. If we catch him we can charge him with a felony."

Ford may see record homer after making first pitch

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford, who, as a kid, watched Babe Ruth hit home runs, probably will get a chance to see Hank Aaron tie or break Ruth's career homer record Thursday after he throws out the first ball to open the 1974 major league baseball season.

Barring injury, Aaron, who is only one home run shy of Ruth's record 714, quite likely will start for the Atlanta Braves against the Cincinnati Reds the UPI has learned.

President Nixon was invited to throw out the first ball, but did not avail himself of the invitation and the Reds announced Tuesday that Ford will do the honors instead at Thursday's 2:30 p.m. (EDT) opener at sold-out Riverfront Stadium here.

Ford originally saw Ruth when he came there with the New York Yankees for an exhibition game at Grand Rapids, Mich., where the Vice President grew up, and he always has been a baseball fan, generally following the Detroit Tigers.

Braves Manager Eddie Mathews said Tuesday that he and Aaron will not decide until a few hours before Thursday's game whether the 40-year-old slugger will play.

Mathews' recommendation, the ultimate decision is up to me," said Mathews. "But just like last year, Hank and I will talk it over on a daily basis to see if he wants to play. We'll decide Thursday morning if he will play that afternoon."

Aaron's home run record quest has added drama to Cincinnati's traditional hosting of baseball's opener but whether Aaron will play has brought controversy into the picture.

Earlier this year, Braves Chairman Bill Bartholomay indicated Aaron would skip the opening three game series here to give him a chance of breaking Ruth's record in Atlanta.

But Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who also will be here for Thursday's opener, strongly recommended that Aaron play in at least some of the games.

Mathews, in Birmingham, Ala., where the Braves wrapped up their exhibition schedule Tuesday, said he was trying to keep baseball politics out of the decision.

"Hank is the number one consideration," Mathews said.

Last season Mathews and Aaron conferred almost daily on whether Aaron felt ready to play. Aaron appeared in 118 games last season and made it a practice to skip afternoon games that followed night games.

The opening three-game series here calls for all afternoon games on Thursday Saturday and Sunday, Friday is an off day.

Mathews indicated that weather and Aaron's health would be key factors in Thursday's decision.

"Cold weather could make a difference, said Mathews. "His health also will be important. When you're 40 years old I don't know if you're ever in peak physical condition."

Mathews said he "doesn't even think about" whether the publicity and pressure accompanying Aaron's record chase helps or hurts the rest of his team.

"I'm very happy to be a part of it, as our entire ball club," he said. "Hank is a great guy. I'm very excited for him."

This will be Aaron's 21st season in the major leagues, culminating a career that started with senior ball in his native Mobile, Ala., and even included a stint with the barnstorming Indianapolis Clowns, for whom he battled cross-handed.

Aaron's first major league home run came on April 21, 1954, against the St. Louis Cardinals, and he wound up a record of 31 home runs with a record of 31 home runs.

Ruth, who hit his first homer in 1915, belted number 714 against Pittsburgh on May 23, 1955, a day he hit three home runs.

WFL counters Canada threats of outlaw

HONOLULU (UPI) — World Football League President Gary Davidson said Tuesday that if the Canadian government blocks the WFL's entry into Canada his league will go after the Canadian Football League's American players.

Davidson, visiting here to look over the city's yet-to-be-completed stadium as a possible site for the WFL championship game next November, said he does not expect the Canadian government to ban the WFL.

WHA okays insurance, expands

TORONTO (UPI) — The World Hockey Association and the league's Players' Association Tuesday reached agreement on a new contract covering pensions, medical and dental plans and insurance policies.

Ton Roberts, a lawyer for the Players' Association, said the package of benefits was enjoyed by players in the National Hockey League.

The pact is retroactive to the beginning of this season.

The league also announced that the Indianapolis and Phoenix would be the two cities added to the league next year, bringing it to 14 teams. A 15th franchise is being sought so the league can be divided into three divisions.

The WHA minimum salary this season was $12,000, while average salaries in the league were $29,000.

The league's attendance surpassed 300,000 over last year.

Players on the team which finishes first in the WHA playoffs stand to make $11,000 each.

Cubs release Pappas

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Veteran Milt Pappas, just one game shy of becoming only the third pitcher in history to win 100 games in both major leagues, was given his unconditional release Tuesday by the Chicago Cubs.

"I was very surprised," Pappas said before returning to his home in Chicago. "I thought they would give me at least a month to fall out my face or do the job."

The 34-year-old pitcher slumped last year to a 7-13 record. In 1972 his record was 17-7, and included a no-hitter against San Diego.

Pappas started his career as an 18-year-old back in 1957 with the Baltimore Orioles and won 110 games with the American League club.

Bullets cop 2-1 lead on Knicks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Capital Bullets blew all but one point of a 16-point lead Tuesday night and then staged a late burst to beat the New York Knicks 89-79 and take a lead of 2-1 in games in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

It was the lowest point total ever scored by the Knicks in a playoff game against the Bullets. The fourth game will be played in Landover, Md.

The Bullets, playing excellent defense, built up a 68-32 lead with 2:31 remaining in the third period and seemed on their way to an easy victory.

But the Knicks, with substitutes Jim Bibby, Dean Meminger, John Gianelli, and Phil Chenier, mounted a rally. Dave DeBusschere, staged a stubborn comeback.

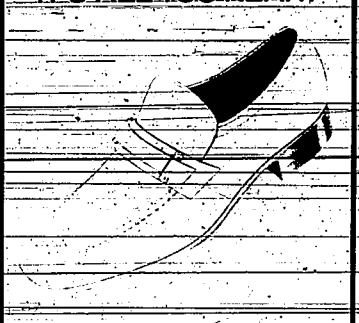

At the end of the third period the Bullets still led by 13 at 77-57, but then the Knicks pulled up and trailed only by one point.

At this point two things happened — the Knicks put back their first team, and Elvin Hayes hit two high-arching bank shots ahead of point shot by Wes Unseld for a six-point burst that put the Bullets back in front by seven. The Knicks never came close again.

Kevin Porter of the Bullets took scoring honors with 22 points while Elvin Hayes added 17 and Phil Chenier 12 for the Bullets. Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 20.

Once before in playoff action the Bullets held a 2-1 lead over the Knicks. That was in 1971-72, and the Knicks reeled off the next three games to take the series. However, in that series both of the Bullets' victories were on their home court.

Texas group buys Rangers from Short for $10 million

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Bob Short, who packed up the Washington Senators and moved them West and renamed them the Texas Rangers, Tuesday sold the team with the poorest record in the major leagues for $10 million to a group headed by a 34-year-old "boy wonder" millionaire from Fort Worth.

Short will retain 10 per cent of the franchise and run the club until sometime after the season starts.

The Minnesota millionaire, who has flown his private jet to Texas for almost every Ranger home game the past two years, said more businessmen would buy into the club later.

It is known that Short will soon make a bid for a substantial interest in the Minnesota Twins. If successful, by season's end he would own both teams.

Short said no money changed hands Tuesday, but the sale is consummated.

This group will own the Rangers when the ball club takes the field Thursday night, said a smiling Short, lamed from spending the spring at the team's training site at Pompano Beach, Fla.

"I wish I could have done better by myself," he said. "I have today said controlling interest in the club. The people who are with the club will remain — no change will be made and none is anticipated."

Bradford G. Corbett, who came from New York to start an industrial empire, said he had $200,000 loan from the Small Business Administration in 1967 when he was 25, is the majority owner.

His associates are Amos G. Corbett, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Fort Worth attorneys Bill Harvey and Buzz Keimble; real estate developer Raymond Nader; insurance brokers Bill Stacy and Charles Sharpe, all of Dallas; and Clayton Walker of Pittsburgh, Kan.

"I was born in the Bronx but I am a Texas boy," Short said.

He said he had been in the insurance business for 10 years, and was a partner in a group of insurance companies in Texas.

Corbett said he first opened talks with Short a year ago. He said he had been in the insurance business for 10 years, and was a partner in a group of insurance companies in Texas.

Short and the new owners said Billy Martin would remain as manager and the former New York Yankee infielder said he would be glad to stay.

control of the Arlington City Council. After two seasons in the red, the radio-television package has signed enough sponsors this year to make money.

Short would not reveal how much each of the new owners paid. The former owner of the old Minneapolis Lakers — now in Los Angeles — said he was sorry he could not do in baseball what he did in basketball.

"When I had the Lakers, they were the worst team in basketball. When I sold them, they were the second best team in basketball."

Monzon will defend crown on July 20

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Carlos Monzon, the Argentine lightweight boxing champion, Tuesday put off his retirement out of his head with the announcement he'll defend his title July 20 in Buenos Aires against Colombia's Rodrigo Valdes.

Promoter Juan Carlos "Titi" Lescure said the fight will be staged at Luna Park Stadium.

For the 31-year-old Monzon, it will be his 10th title defense. After his last successful defense, against welterweight champion Jose "Mantequilla" Napoles of Mexico in Paris.

Monzon, rated by many experts as the best pound-for-pound fighter active today, is known to have trouble making middleweight.

The handsome champion has a role in a movie now being filmed in Argentina.

Despite their many differences, hairs are made of the same kind of material that forms hooves, claws, snake scales and fingernails, says National Geographic.

Stabler signs to jump to WFL in '76

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kenny Stabler, the Joe Namath of the 1970s, provided the World Football League with its first name quarterback and fourth NFL star player Tuesday by signing a reported $350,000 three-year contract with the Birmingham Americans.

Stabler, who followed in Namath's footsteps at Alabama, is committed to play two more years for the Oakland Raiders before he can legally jump leagues, he said.

In New York, Dusty Rhodes, assistant general manager of the New York Stars, said, "We are close to coming to terms with two top NFL ballplayers—top, top men famous for the performances with New York teams."

The rapid developments followed Sunday's blockbuster announcement that three stars of the world champion Miami Dolphins, Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick and Paul Warfield, have signed AFL contracts with the Toronto Northmen.

Stabler, drafted by the Raiders in 1968, carried Oakland to the AFC Western Division title last season. He will not play for Birmingham until 1976 because he has one year remaining on his contract with the Raiders, then one year to play out his NFL option.

Stabler said "I intend to honor my Oakland contract to the fullest extent. My making this move had nothing to do with anything that happened in Oakland. The Raiders are a super organization."

The most important factor was money, Stabler said. "We didn't give the Raiders a chance to make any kind of counter offer. I don't think they could have done anything to make me reconsider."

Getting back to the South was also pretty important, said Stabler, a native of Birmingham. "I want to play in the South. I want to play in the South. I want to play in the South."

Ambassadors sign retired Collins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Ambassadors of the World Football League, arguing punters will be more valuable than field-goal kickers because of rules operating in the new league, have brought Gary Collins out of retirement.

The Ambassadors announced Tuesday that the two-time All-Pro end and kicker would join the Ambassadors as a player-coach.

Head Coach Jack Pardee said "The signing of Collins will enable us to have quite a bit of experience in receiving and kicking."

In the WFL, the uprights will be 10 yards behind the goal line and when a field goal try is missed the ball returns to the line of scrimmage.

"We are going to see a lot more punting in this league," Pardee said. "When it is fourth and 25, it is usually going to be longer, so the tendency will be to punt, not go for a field goal."

Collins, 33, was a first round draft choice of the Cleveland Browns in 1962 after two outstanding years at the University of Maryland. He was All-Pro in 1965-66 and his three touchdown receptions in the 1964 championship game against Baltimore, which earned him the MVP award, remain a playoff game record.

He retired after the 1971 season and coached two seasons at Lebanon Valley College in Pennsylvania.

Collins, who followed in Namath's footsteps at Alabama, is committed to play two more years for the Oakland Raiders before he can legally jump leagues, he said.

O.J. voted athlete of year

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Buf-falo Bills running back O.J. Simpson, the National Football League's ground-breaking all-time champion, Thursday was voted the athlete of the year by the United Campaign of Champions.

The annual balloting also named Billy Jean King as the best professional tennis player of the year.

Simpson, who missed the last professional football game and Miss King received their awards during a television special hosted by Bob Hope.

Other winners picked by readers of TV Guide Magazine, which prints the campaign ballots each January, were Reggie Jackson, Oakland A's, Best professional baseball player.

Walt Frazier, New York Knicks, Best professional basketball player.

Jack Nicklaus, Best professional golfer.

Phil Esposito, Boston Bruins, Best professional hockey player.

Bill Walton, U.S.A., Best college basketball player.

The winners were selected from 21 nominees, three in each category.

Foreman pays tax, leaves Venezuela

CARACAS (UPI) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman, $24,000 lighter in the pocket, landed his second Venezuelan vacation Tuesday and caught a New York-bound jetliner mulling local income tax officials had treated him and his party "like tramps."

The champion's lawyers worked "throughout" the morning and into the early afternoon in order to get the last details on his tax problems resolved.

A member of the tax department personally accompanied Foreman to the airport to assist the champion and his party, which included manager trainer, Dick Sudol, and financial advisor, Jerry Jackson, through departure formalities.

Foreman was obliged to pay "cash" on his $700,000 purse and expected $200,000 from his March 26 two-round knock-out of Ken Norton.

Foreman was turned back at the airport last Thursday by immigration officials after the income tax department issued orders preventing him and his 15-man party from leaving Venezuela until the tax was paid.

"Surely something could have been arranged in a little more gentlemanly fashion. It could have been done more honorably," Foreman said. "We've been treated like a bunch of tramps."

Q's face big test tonight

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Will Chamberlain's San Diego Conquistadors, down by two in their best-of-seven series with the Utah Stars, must regroup tonight or face early elimination from the American Basketball Association playoffs.

The Stars earned the two game edge by defeating the Q's in Salt Lake City with a balanced offense that produced high scoring and rebounding.

The Conquistadors lost the first game 114-99 and the second on Monday night 115-105.

San Diego's injury-wracked club was led by high scorer Bo Lamar, who produced 41 points for the Q's Monday. But Utah's Gerald Govan pulled down 25 rebounds as the Stars out-rebounded San Diego 65-48 and balanced scoring led by Willie Wise's 25 points combined with San Diego's limp offense to defeat the Conquistadors.

The two met again Friday for the fourth game and then return to Salt Lake City.

Service called helpful

TWIN FALLS — Helping others can sometimes help yourself, says Mabel Barron, Bull.

She was one of several Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary members honored Monday.

Mrs. Barron joined the auxiliary a few years ago to keep busy after the death of her husband. She now has 3,100 hours of volunteer service in auxiliary projects and programs to prove she has been keeping busy.

She was one of many auxiliary members honored during the spring fashion show luncheon Monday at the Turl Club.

Among other top workers were Mrs. Carol Shadley, 3,300 hours, but who was not present for the award. Others were Dolores Brawley, former president, with 2,600 hours; Alexa Asen, 2,100 hours; Claire Carpenter, Ruth Stephens Chairmen of the annual project included Mrs. Ed Harper, second vice president and co-chairman, and Marvin Jensen, first vice president and general chairman.

McHan blasts listing

KETCHUM — State Rep. E. V. McHan, R-Ketchum, Tuesday took exception to including appropriation committee members in a published tally of legislator attendance records.

McHan, who serves on the House Appropriations Committee, was listed as having an 84 per cent attendance record and as missing 84 out of 100 recorded votes in an attendance card ranking of senators and representatives Monday for the second regular session of the 42nd Idaho Legislature.

McHan said the appropriation committee met each morning at 8:30 a.m. and each afternoon at 2 p.m. He termed "highly improper" the inclusion of committee members in such an attendance tally along with other legislators.

"I never ran away from a vote in the last four years," McHan said.

Spiro buys new home

ANNAPOLIS Md. (UPI) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who sold his home in the Washington suburbs last week for $300,000, will probably move to a less expensive but still desirable neighborhood near his Maryland capital.

Max Charles McQuinn, wife of a builder, said Agnew purchased one of her husband's homes last Saturday in the Indian Hills section three miles north of here.

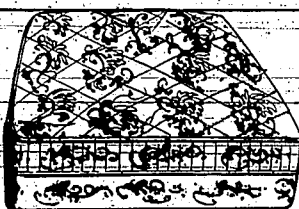

Old act key in bias case

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A 108-year-old civil rights act may be the key in a case which could determine if private schools may legally exclude black students.

Attorneys for black parents argued Tuesday before the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that two schools in northern Virginia private schools are not private because they will admit any otherwise qualified white student.

Ketchum renames 4 streets

KETCHUM — Name changes for four city streets were approved by the Ketchum City Council Monday night.

The changes include renaming Third Street from "Sun Valley city limits to Third Avenue as 'Sun Valley Road,' renaming Main Street from Sixth Street intersection to the Wood River as 'Warm Springs Road East,' naming the road which parallels the railroad tracks north past Anderson Lumber as 'Baxter Street,' and renaming the portion of US Highway 99 within the Ketchum city limits as 'Main Street.'

The changes had been recommended by the city planning and zoning commission and had stemmed from a two-year-old street renaming project.

In other action, the council agreed to apply to qualify the city for the National Flood Insurance Program and adopted two enabling resolutions. Once the city is qualified, residents will be able to purchase the insurance.

Approved an ordinance adopting the 1973 Uniform Building Code after the third reading of the proposed measure.

Tabled a request from Rick Kessler, Magic Lantern Cinema, to allow an exit onto the public right-of-way until city attorney Robert St. Clair determines whether such a change in Uniform Building Code provisions would require publication and a public hearing.

Big code stipulates that an exit must not open more than one foot beyond the property line.

Approved an ordinance to allow emergency police and fire parking in the alley located between Third and Fourth Streets, and Main and Washington Streets north of the fire station.

Tabled for further research a request from State of Sun Valley for licenses to sell beer and wine, which will not be consumed on the premises.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can you explain why a wealthy woman, when eating out, always takes home the leftover dinner rolls, carrot sticks, crackers, and anything else that's served and isn't eaten?

This lady is very generous where charity is concerned. We are four women who meet once a week for bridge and lunch—and her conduct puzzles me.

I can understand a "doggie bag" for leftover portions of meat, but what about taking home every morsel of edible food on the table?

On occasion we all meet with our husbands, and when this woman asked my husband for his leftover carrots to take home, he thought she was kidding. Yet her husband seemed indifferent. How do you figure this? AMAZED

Doggie bagger

DEAR ABBY: The lady can't bear to see anything wasted. There are many people who, if they had the courage, would collect all the leftovers. There is nothing wrong with it. If she were poor, she'd be "chintzy." But since she's rich, she's "eccentric."

DEAR ABBY: My wife passed away three months ago. She was 52, and a wonderful woman. My children are married and have homes of their own. My mother-in-law is constantly plying me with advice. Example: "Don't ever marry again. All women are gold diggers. All they want is your money."

Abby—my life seems so empty. I don't know anyone I want to date, but my mother-in-law's constant harping on the subject has made me think about it.

How long a mourning period should be observed in my case? How soon is "too soon" to seek female companionship? Would my dating before a year be considered disrespectful to the memory of my late wife?

Our marriage was a happy one and we had 30 good years. But I think I'm too young to resign myself to a life alone. What do you think? LONELY

DEAR LONELY: In your life, obviously not that of your departed wife, or certainly not that of your mother-in-law, that counts. If you dislike living alone, do something about it and don't worry about what others think. Who named them as your judge?

DEAR ABBY: My son and his wife have been married for three years. They are both bleeding heart liberals and miss no opportunity to announce that they have no children because they don't want any.

I thought my decision to have no children is a very Minidoka took a team of 45 girls to the contest this year. Mrs. Rosie Astorquia and Mrs. Lennie Lindstrom are the faculty leaders of the team.

The girls did "a marvelous job," Mrs. Astorquia said. "They are so excited. It will be a week before they relax and get back to work."

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you could have all sorts of troubles with work you have to do. Don't grumble or be critical. Be considerate and step a tendency to feel you are being abused. Patience and a little advice, however, will help.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Don't be ruled by others just because you are in a bad mood or you get into further trouble. Keep busy with work you have to do.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): If you become more optimistic you will be able to handle a problematical affair with ease and without undue stress or strain.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Do something about a tense situation at home. Be tactful and you get fine results. Assume a more cheerful attitude toward others.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Exercise care in judgment and avoid possible trouble at the time. Listen to ideas of one who is interested in your welfare.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23): Don't force your way into a situation that is not good for you anyway. Try to be more economical. Save time for worthwhile person.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 22): Don't trust too far. Now is a good time to get a job or to find a new one. A smile is your best weapon against adversity at this time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Secret dealings with others. Your best mode of procedure now if you want good results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Use patience with your friends who are out of sorts right now. Know exactly what you aim at and go after them intelligently.

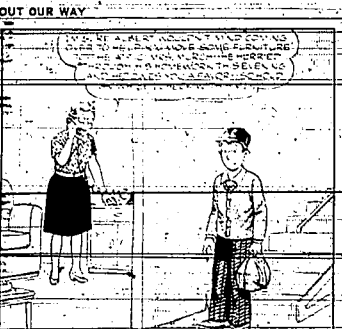

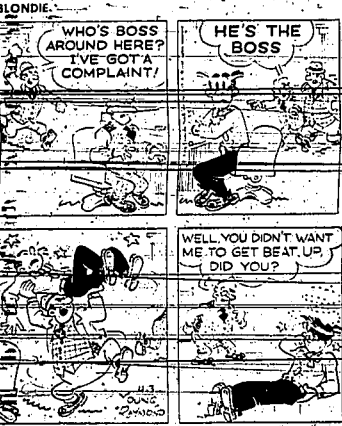

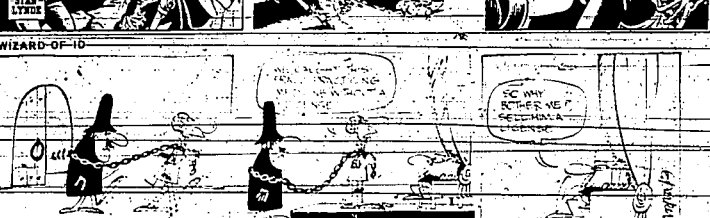

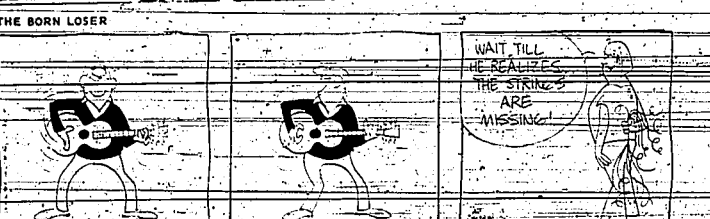

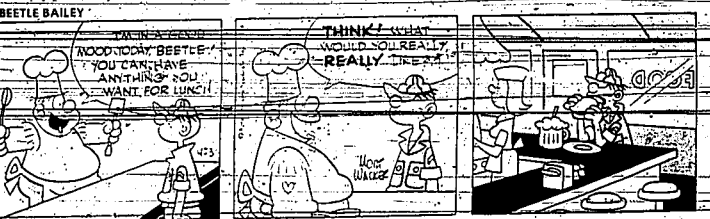

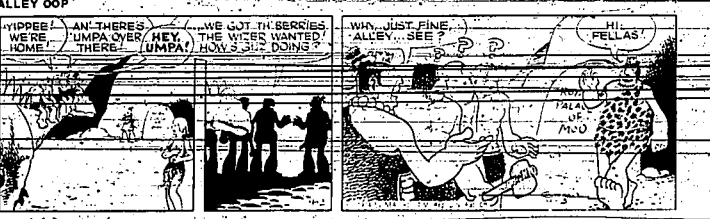

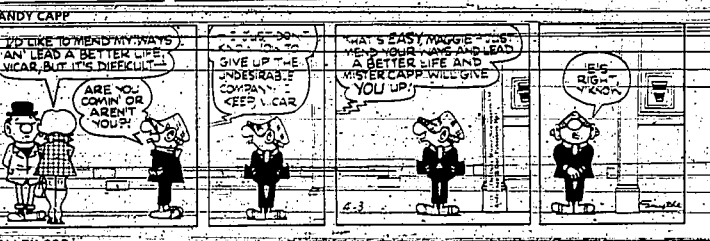

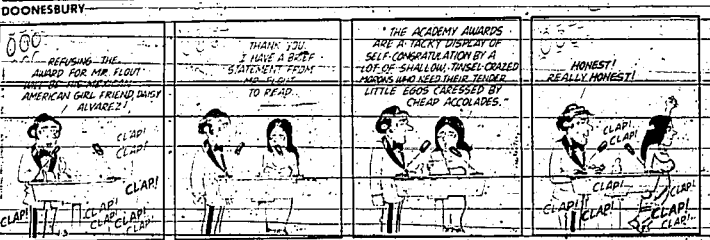

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Handling outside affairs with much ease is very important now. Gain support of a lawyer who can be helpful to your advancement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Your ideas for growth are fine, but they need more study before putting them into action. Take that chip off your shoulder.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18): You want to delve into those difficult situations. You may find that they may be more complicated than you realize.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Some associates are sarcastic and demanding. Be kept quiet until they get rid of their hangups and all goes smoothly again.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: He or she will be a happy, cheerful, but could be a troublemaker. If he or she is a girl, she will be a troublemaker. If he or she is a boy, he will be a troublemaker. He or she will be a troublemaker. He or she will be a troublemaker.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

It was the Hungarians who originally put together the mechanical computer. The machine squares the race from chess, holds computers it to make a problem cheaper than milk. But it's the Japanese who now are going into the process in a big way. The Matsushita Corporation reports it will have a mechanical logic set up by sometime next year.

Physicians in ancient Greece wrote their prescriptions in verse.

Average lifespan of a man three years longer than one of every 100 people wears such a gadget now.

Question arises as to what's the first thing a father should teach his child. That's easy, says our Love and War man. The old boy should show the youngster that he loves said youngster's mother.

MEN'S CLUB

Possibly you've never heard of "The Sit, Whistle and Spit" Men's Club of New England. Its charter only sets down three rules: 1. Don't sit in the sun. 2. Don't whistle toward your wife. 3. Don't spit against the wind.

What's the value of the average homeowner's house?

How many rooms? How about the average rented house?

A Homewood house, about $11,000. With five and a half rooms. What a half-moon? Rented house, approximately $89 a month. With four rooms.

Doesn't it for Nantux sleep in a round bed?

A Oval. Or so go the reports. With said sheets.

BED AND SHOES

If you ask a doctor to name the most important piece of furniture in your home, odds run 97 to one he'll say your bed. If you ask him to identify your most important attire, chances are about the same he'll say your shoes.

A kop is one sort of East Africa's antelope. Each male kop owns a sizable harem. But that's not all. Each male with any character also owns a small piece of real estate. About the size of a putting green. It's called his stamping ground. As long as said male can defend his turf against evildoers and lustful rogues, he can maintain control of his wives. They have little regard for any male kop who doesn't hold title to his own lot of ground. Oddly, a good strong male kop usually can drive off a romantic competitor simply by stamping his own stamp. Keep it mind-muster, best-lone, some obvious fellow appears a little too late in the presence of your lady-love.
